

Tino Schlegel, 13

“My dad makes electronic steering wheels.”

Tino's father is helping build a steer-by-wire system that could one day replace the traditional mechanical linkage between steering wheel and road wheels.

Defining technological progress.

Markus Schlegel and his colleagues are working on a new kind of steering system. The innovative system offers clear benefits in terms of crash safety, functionality and fuel consumption.

Innovations like these make us into one of the world's most successful automotive suppliers. Another reason why ThyssenKrupp is such an attractive investment.

Visit us on the Internet: www.thyssenkrupp.com

Developing the future.

ThyssenKrupp

